FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

A group of five Montana State University scientists will fly out of Missoula Monday for Moffat Air Force Base near San Francisco, Calif., to be guests of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration on a three day inspection trip of Ames Research Laboratory. Included in the group will be Dr. Richard Solberg of Botany; Dr. Arnold Miller of Psychology; Dr. M. J. Nakamura, chairman of the Microbiology Department; Dr. Charles Parker, director of the Speech and Hearing Clinic; Dr. George Weisel of Zoology and Dr. Robert Van Horne, dean of Pharmacy. The group will investigate the laboratory research facilities and endeavor to determine how MSU science departments can fit in with the general problems of space research.

Another group will undertake a similar mission May 11 and 12 at the Lewis Research Center in Cleveland, Ohio. This group will also include Dr. Solberg; Dr. John Stewart, chairman of the Chemistry Department; Dr. John Hower of Geology and Frederick Gerlach of Forestry.
